

Hotel Angletterre

St. Isaac's Square / UL. Malaya Morskaya 24

The Angletterre was one of the first hotels in St Petersburg. In the 1920s it was a favourite destination for artists and poets. From its charming location overlooking St Isaac's Cathedral, it is perfectly placed for discovering the history and romance of the city. Perhaps it was the view of St Isaac's Cathedral that made the Angletterre so popular with the poets of St Petersburg?

All Deluxe Rooms have views over St Isaac's Square and, naturally, a writing desk. Today's writers also enjoy a broadband connection together with all the modern conveniences and service one would expect from a luxury international hotel.

St Petersburg has always been a melting pot of culinary influences from Europe and Asia and this tradition continues today.

Borsalino Restaurant features an original Italian menu that attracts discerning locals as well as hotel guests. With its smart interior and laid-back atmosphere, it is the perfect place to meet, eat and relax and in the evening there's live jazz in the bar

Where better to enjoy Russia's most famous delicacy than the Angletterre's Caviar Bar, with its fine selection of caviar and stunning views of St Isaac's Cathedral.

Choose from four types of caviar, including the world-renowned Beluga Caviar served with traditional blinis, a tempting variety of smoked fish and even hand-made Sushi. The bar also offers a fine selection of wine and champagne (the traditional accompaniment to caviar) and an array of quality Russian vodka.

The Caviar Bar is located on the ground floor of the Angletterre Hotel and open daily from noon to 2.00.

In a city that takes its food culture as seriously as St Petersburg, there's always a choice of the finest food and drink on offer, and the Angletterre provides a finer choice than most.

Take afternoon tea in the hotel's Gallery (available in English and Russian-style) or enjoy a perfect cup of Italian coffee or hot chocolate. The Gallery also offers light meals from a tempting menu of Russian and International dishes.

After sampling the many attractions that are just minutes from the hotel, you can relax in the Angletterre's luxurious spa with an indoor pool, sauna and turbo-solarium, or indulge in a body or facial treatment at the Beauty Studio.

If you prefer something a little more active, enjoy a workout in the hotel's gym. With state-of-the-art TechnoGym equipment, it is the perfect place to keep in shape when you're away from home.
